One morning a little girl named Sarah got up on the wrong side of the bed. She woke up and wanted to go sledding. She put on her swimsuit and went downstairs. She walked past her mom and said, "Mom I'm ready to go sledding!" "Sarah! You're wearing that sledding?" "Yes!" "O.K., Go out and try it then!" said Mom laughing. Sarah jumped out the door and into a snow pile and said, "Boy! It's freezing out here! I better go get some more clothes on!"

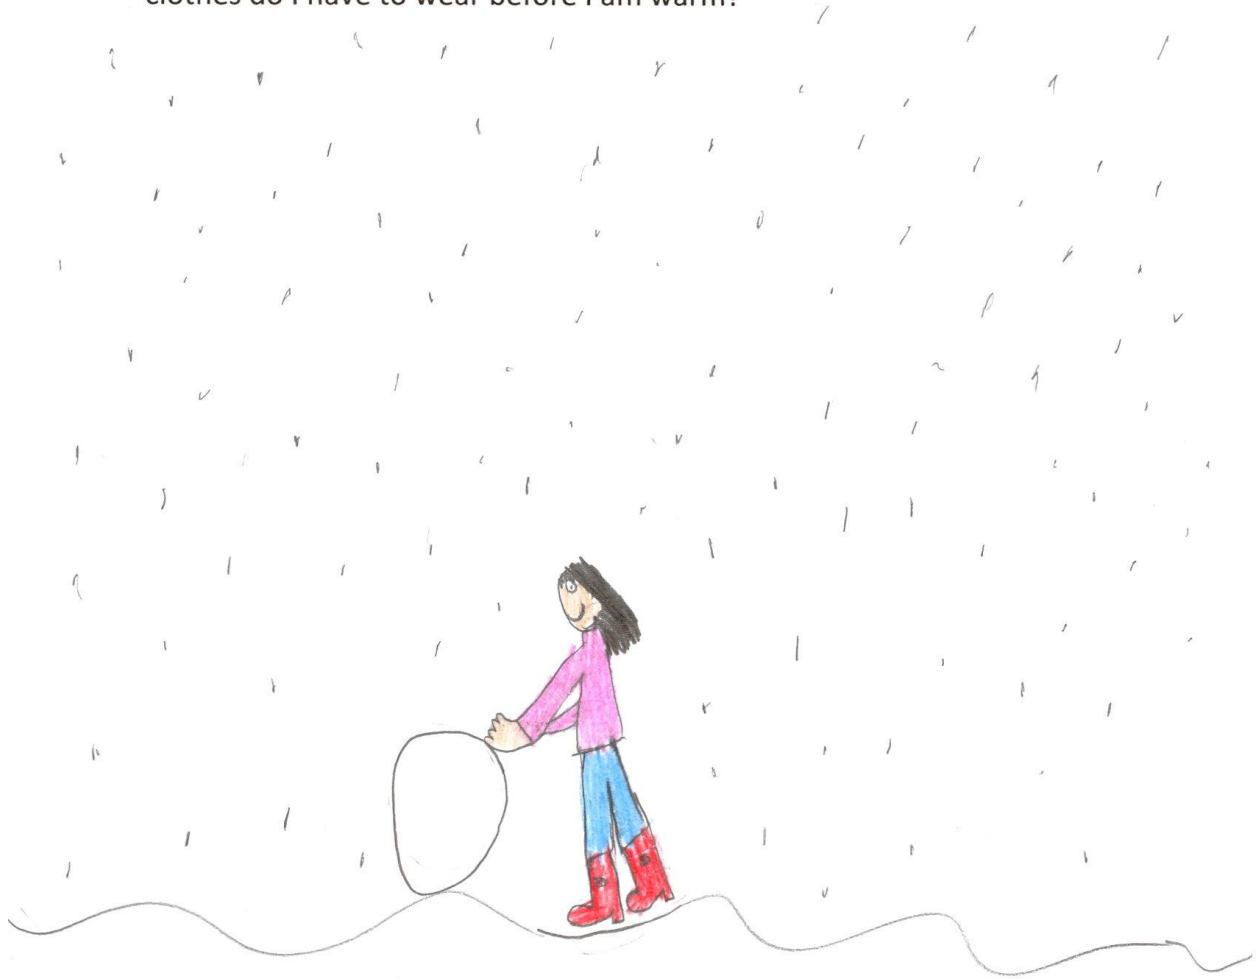

She went into the house to get more clothes on and her mom said, "I told you it would be cold out there!" "I know, Mom, I know," said Sarah. She went to her room and put on shorts and a t-shirt. Then she went downstairs to put on her flip flops and went back outside. Sarah took an icicle off of the roof and licked it. She says, "Awwww! I am still freezing!"

Sarah went back inside and put on a long sleeved shirt, pants and tennis shoes. She goes back downstairs and her Mom says, "You are going back outside again?" "Yeah," said Sarah, "I want to build a fort." She goes outside and starts building a wall to the fort and says, "Brrrr! I am STILL cold!"

She goes back inside to her room and puts on a sweater and sweatpants. She goes back downstairs and her Mom says, "Why do you keep coming inside and then going back outside again?" "Well, it's a long story and I don't have time to tell you because I am going to build a snowman." Sarah gets her cowboy boots on and goes back outside again. She starts rolling a ball for the snowman and says, "How many clothes do I have to wear before I am warm?"

She goes back in the house and gets a coat, snowsuit, snow boots, hat, scarf, and mittens and goes back outside. She says, "Now I am ready to go sledding!" Sarah runs outside to the hill and sleds down it for two hours.
